SUBJECT: SITUATION REPORT #3 ON SEVERE WEATHER

OVERVIEW – The National Weather Service has reported that the first line of Wednesday night's storms has passed through Wisconsin, but that a second wave of storms has entered the state, bringing the potential for isolated tornados, damaging thunderstorm winds, large hail and heavy rains. This second line of storms extends from the Wausau area to La Crosse to northcentral Iowa, and is sagging southeast as it moves through Wisconsin overnight.

The northwest third of Wisconsin is expected to remain quiet for the rest of the night.

Severe thunderstorm warnings are in place for all or portions of Columbia, Dane, Green Lake, Marquette, Portage, Richland, Sauk, Vernon, Waupaca and Waushara Counties until differing overnight hours.

Flash flood warnings are in place for all or portions of Calumet, Jackson, Juneau, Marathon, Monroe, Outagamie, Portage, Winnebago and Wood Counties until differing overnight hours.

An urban and small stream flood advisory has been issued for Fond du Lac, Green Lake, Marquette and Sheboygan Counties until 1:30 a.m. It is possible that an urban and small stream flood advisory could be issued for Columbia, Dodge, Ozaukee, Sauk and Washington Counties as the second wave of storms move westward.

Below are the latest damage reports as of 12:00 a.m.:

Pierce County has reported serious damage to a home from a possible tornado. Fires caused by lightning strikes have been reported in Brown, Door and Washington Counties. Clark County has reported property damage to cabins and other residences.

Trees are down in Brown, Clark, Door, Jackson, Ozaukee, Pierce, Sheboygan, Washington and Winnebago Counties and at Fort McCoy.

Power outages have been reported in Clark, Jackson, Ozaukee and Washington Counties.

Flooding has been reported in Brown, Outagamie, Ozaukee, Sheboygan and Winnebago Counties.

Wisconsin Emergency Management has not received any requests for assistance.
