Weather

With the exception of some thunderstorms in Walworth and Kenosha Counties, most the southern Wisconsin avoided additional rainfall on Sunday. The National Weather Service says another round of rain and possible storms is expected Tuesday starting in northwest Wisconsin, moving into the southern part of the state Wednesday into Thursday morning. Flood warnings remain in effect for the Baraboo, Rock, Pecatonica, Sugar, Turtle Creek, Kickapoo, Trempealeau and Fox Rivers.

State of Emergency

Governor Walker declared a State of Emergency for 17 Wisconsin counties due to flooding. The counties in the declaration are Buffalo, Crawford, Dane, Grant, Green, Iowa, Jackson, Juneau, La Crosse, Lafayette, Monroe, Pepin, Richland, Rock, Sauk, Trempealeau and Vernon Counties.

Governor Visits Cassville

Today, Governor Walker and Major General Dunbar toured the flood damage in the Grant County Village of Cassville. At least five homes were destroyed, 10 suffered major damage, and others were affected by the flooding Friday night into Saturday morning. That flooding was triggered by up to 10 inches of rain which fell in a matter of hours. The Governor also met with and thanks the first responders at the Cassville Fire Station, crediting their hard work with saving lives.

Emergency Shelters

All emergency shelters are closed with the exception of the Cassville High School in Cassville. Two families stayed at the shelter last night and will again tonight.

Southwest Wisconsin Flood Update

Crawford County

Crawford County - Both directions of WIS 171 at Old Gays Rd are closed due to flooding. Both directions of WIS 131 at Pine St are also closed. All eastbound and westbound lanes on WIS 179 at County E are closed due to flooding.

Grant County

All Emergency Operation Centers in Grant County are now closed. Damage assessments will continue this week. Both directions between County Y and County U because of damage to the roadway caused by flooding.

Monroe County

Residential damage assessments are underway and will continue next week.

Richland County
